

Pensees - Philosophy as Biography
By Shomit Sirohi

In Pascal's sense then one reflects on each part as finally progressive insights under the peculiar thought and style of my own life - I mean it is described as poetic, mathematical and scientific formalism which then is also theological - from Torah to Christianity and then Quran.

I. Reflections on Education - Thoughts and Style on Youth

The insights are progressive of course, but form a thought on education - free style and then public ethics, with bourgeoisie and finally some affect for the truly poor. I also mean style here, uniqueness and then singularity - the pensee is about progressive movements on these themes. I think what I am trying to express is also a cultural interpretation - French goes speculative, Spanish goes unique and political with sex and philosophy.

II. Reflections on Psychoanalysis and Love, even Friendship with Women

After that I argue psychoanalysis is on the phone, on the mail, and even on the breakfast at an American Diner. I also mean a love for crime and drugs which makes it to drinking. It is also about finally encounter, a fundamental discovery of the language of reflections on cinema, literature and music, all of this is liberal life away from authoritarian life. I mean also a love for politics and praxis merged with speeches, which also covers in abstract fashion the world of criticism.

III. History, Literature, Politics and All Disciplines In Fact - College Years

Here of course I end my biography - it is a reflection on tragedy - the right as dominant, far right in fact, with a tragic left. I mean this is then merged with intellectual professor's lives, and is a true life.
